

CONTRIBUTORS

Antony Beevor JOINED THE LIBRARY IN 1976
Antony Beevor's books include Stalingrad and Berlin: The Downfall. His most recent work, D-Day: The Battle for Normandy (2009), was a No. 1 bestseller in six European countries. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature and was Chairman of the Society of Authors (2003–5).

John Julius Norwich JOINED THE LIBRARY IN 1960
John Julius Norwich has written histories of Norman Sicily, the Venetian Republic, the Byzantine Empire and the Mediterranean, and he has recently completed a book on the history of the papacy. He has also written and presented some 30 historical documentaries for BBC Television.

Simon Godwin JOINED THE LIBRARY IN 1992
Simon Godwin is Associate Director of the Bristol Old Vic Theatre. He has directed plays across the country, including the world premiere of Mister Heracles at the West Yorkshire Playhouse and Eurydice at Trafalgar Studios. His book on games, Ting Tang Tommy!, was published this October.

Tom Parker Bowles JOINED THE LIBRARY IN 2003
Tom Parker Bowles is a food writer, with a column in the Mail on Sunday's Live Magazine, and is a contributing editor for GO. He presents a weekly radio show, Food and Drink, on LBC. His most recent book is Full English: A Journey Through the British and Their Food.

Roy Hattersley JOINED THE LIBRARY IN 1997
Roy Hattersley is a politician turned writer. He was an MP for 33 years, and is now a journalist. His 20 books include biographies of John Wesley and William and Catherine Booth. In Search of England, a collection of his essays, has just been published.

Carol Rumens JOINED THE LIBRARY IN 2005
Carol Rumens has written 15 poetry collections, a novel and several plays. Her latest collection is Blind Spots (2008). She currently writes the Poem of the Week Blog for Guardian Books Online. Carol was born in London and sometimes writes on working-class and suburban London themes.

Andrew Martin JOINED THE LIBRARY IN 1999
Andrew Martin is the author of eight novels, including six featuring the Edwardian railway detective, Jim Stringer. The first of these was The Necropolis Railway; the latest is The Last Train To Scarborough. His book on British ghostliness, Ghoul Britannia, was published in October.

Rosie Thomas JOINED THE LIBRARY IN 1983
Rosie Thomas has published 18 novels, and twice won the Romantic Novel of the Year award. Her 19th book, Lovers and Newcomers, will be out in 2010. She has recently returned from an expedition to Ladakh and Kashmir, where she was researching the background for her 20th book.

Waterstones.com

Discover the best books of the year at Waterstone's

Waterstone's | DISCOVER SOMETHING NEW